

Dear Chairman Powell, I usually do not make my feelings known about government regulation, but I have to say something regarding this possible action. I am an XM subscriber in the Washington DC area, and extremely satisfied with all that they offer, to include the weather and traffic reports. I have found myself listening less and less to the "local" stations (most are not really local broadcasts, though) and have come to appreciate this new service that XM offers. I will not switch back over to "normal" radio and try to catch the news and weather at some prescribed time, but instead will be a less informed driver on my commute. Please take careful consideration before issuing any rulings regarding XMs ability to deliver this valuable service.
